A. Listen to the dialogues, and complete the sentences. You have 30 seconds to read the sentences before you listen to the dialogues. You will hear the dialogues ONCE.

1. M: So, what is next for you, Ella?
   W: You mean the future?
   M: Yes. Would you like to get married and have children?
   W: Well, actually no. I want to study medicine first.

2. M: Could you do me a favor, Hanna?
   W: Of course.
   M: Could you please turn off the computer?

3. M: Let’s go out for dinner tonight.
   W: I am really sorry, but I am too full.
   M: That’s too bad. Maybe some other time.

4. M: Hey, Maya. What happened?
   W: I broke my ankle.
   M: I am sorry to hear that. How did it happen?
   W: I fell down.

5. M: I want to go on a beach holiday this year.
   W: So do I.
   M: Well, let’s look at these brochures and find a good hotel by the sea, then.
   W: OK.
B. Listen to the dialogues and check (√) past, present or future after you listen to each dialogue. You will hear the dialogues ONCE.

1. M: What are you doing next Sunday?
   W: I am going to a party with my boyfriend. (pause three seconds)

2. W: Can you speak English well?
   M: No, I cannot, but I can speak German. (pause three seconds)

3. M: So, you weren’t at home last night.
   W: No, I went out for dinner with my friends. (pause three seconds)

4. W: Hey, what are you doing over there?
   M: I am buying sandwiches for you.
   W: Great, thanks! (pause three seconds)

Mike: I am so excited! I am off tomorrow and leaving for a holiday. This is great.
Barbara: Oh, nice! Where are you going, Mike?
Mike: Spain.
Barbara: Tell me more.
Mike: Well, I am leaving at eight tomorrow morning. Driving to the airport first, so that’s about an hour, err, so I am arriving at the airport at 9 o’clock, and my plane leaves at 10. This is what I have wanted to do for a long time, so I think it will be a lot fun.
Barbara: So, which cities are you going to visit?
Mike: Actually, at first I just planned to visit Barcelona, and then I decided to see Madrid, too.
Barbara: How long are you going to stay?
Mike: I am going to be in Barcelona for four days and in Madrid for three days.
Barbara: A week in Spain… Sounds great! So, what interesting things are you planning to do there?
Mike: I have a long list of tourist attractions, and I know all about them. I am hoping to visit some museums, especially the Picasso Museum, and taste a bit of the food and the drink, and the lifestyle of Spain.
Barbara: You will visit La Sagrada Familia, the gorgeous church built by the famous architect Gaudi, then?
Mike: Of course! I can’t wait to see it. I love Gaudi’s style, so it is going to be very exciting for me to see one the best examples of his work.
Barbara: Luck you. By the way, will there be any festivals during your stay?
Mike: Actually, there are lots of festivals in Spain. For example, there is this big tomato fight festival in Buñol at the end of this week. People say it is very enjoyable, but I don’t think I am going to have time for it.
Barbara: Hmm, I see.
Mike: By the way, what are your holiday plans, Barbara?
Barbara: I am not sure. I am going on holiday next month and I just want to be somewhere, you know, where I can just relax, lie in the sun for two weeks and come back, but I don’t know yet. Maybe, I can go to Greece.
Mike: I see. You don’t want to get tired of walking around a city all day during your holiday.
Barbara: Yeah, walking around museums on holiday, no no, that is not me at all.
Mike: Maybe, you can go to …. (fades out)
